

Established in 1980, Flo Draulics quickly became the leader in high performance hydraulic and pneumatic components and instrumentation controls. Over the past 20 years, Flo Draulics has grown to a multi-national company with offices located throughout North America.

In the highly competitive world of hydraulic and pneumatic components, it is imperative that companies provide their customers with the latest in technology and prompt service. Companies must strive to deliver, sometimes one-of-a-kind equipment at a fast rate and at the lowest price possible, while keeping their costs low. For this reason alone, communication between a company and its subsidiaries is extremely important. Sharing inventory stock levels, and reporting timely financial information is crucial in identifying potential problems, as well as locating and implementing cost saving solutions and increasing profitability.

The Flo Draulics Group began using the MIS Inc. software products in 1994. eWholesale™ takes care of Flo Draulics' accounting and financial management, while their light manufacturing needs are taken care of by the eManufacturing™ module. eWholesale™ advanced and flexible kitting function helps expedite production and delivery to the satisfaction of customers and staff alike.

"eWholesale, has provided the Flo Draulics Group with timely financial information, which has been a key component in allowing us to grow into a major Canadian Distributor of hydraulic equipment. We have worked closely with Magic Information Systems Inc staff to tailor the software to our specific needs. We believe that our management information software provider must partner with us to ensure our success. We look forward to many more years of product development and innovation."
